

Leadership

“I’m not sure if I should be leading or managing”

The Challenge

Everyone’s talking about leadership instead of management and we’re not sure if there is a difference and if there is what is it ? Can I learn these skills or do I have to be born with them ? I’m expected to lead the team, but I’m not sure what I should be doing as not everyone responds to my way of working. There’s so much conflicting views out there I’m not sure what to believe or use.

Leadership seems to be the new buzz word, yet it’s not that well defined in many organisations so how can we expect people to lead, or follow ?

The Solution

Take a pragmatic view and learn how to apply these skills in your leadership role. Leadership is not a position, but a choice and you can learn leadership skills and if you’re willing you can inspire followers which by definition means you are leading. People can lead others from the top, middle or the base of any organisation or team, so understanding the requirements and learning and to use them for maximum certainty is imperative to your success. If you are elevating to a senior position then these skills are essential to have within your performance on a daily basis.

This half day pragmatic workshop enables you to do the following :

- Understand how leadership impacts on your performance
- Identify your current preferred leadership style(s)
- How to adapt your style so that you can lead everyone !
- Lead from different positions in your team / organisation
- Articulate the vision and gain followership
- How to work with different people for maximum output
